

Deloitte hosts a seminar for Inventory Management

On Wednesday evening the financial advisement firm of Deloitte hosted a free seminar at the Surfside Marina for distribution agency owners and management. The guest speaker was Ralf Pflitsch PhD, of Holland, founder of Infolog, an international software company that specializes in inventory management. Infolog (www.infolog.nl) has offices in thirty countries around the world, and working with TheoValize of Innova (www.innova-aruba.com) they have already revolutionized the inventory management system of AMC Unicon ,one of Aruba's largest distributors of electric appliances.

“Reduce stocks, raise your service level, and work more efficiently” was Dr. Pflitsch’s message, and his company has the software with the unique ability to work with any existing accounting programs, unlike most others. Particularly customized to control and manage inventory, it is compatible with already installed programs and integrates smoothly with currently used systems. The software also provides efficient methods for tracking and protecting inventory, thus decreasing costs and increasing profits. Marcelino Quant and Anthony Croes of Deloitte sponsored this seminar to acquaint their customers with the enormous advantages the Infolog software will provide them in their business, and the necessity of updating their systems to successfully compete in today’s demanding business world. They expressed the hope that the many agencies that import and distribute goods on the island will seriously consider updating their systems to the Infolog programs and suggest that interested parties check out the Infolog and Innova websites and contact Theo Valize at valise@innova-aruba.com for more information.
